Summary of reasons for decision:

The image deals mildly with sex as it resembles what is possibly the back end of a horse with its erect penis visible. However, many viewers are likely to find the image indiscernible due to the poor image quality and lack of detail. There is no overtly sexual tone or any sense that the image intends to encourage bestiality. The image does not deal with sex to a degree that would render its availability injurious to the public good. Nor does the image deal with any other matters of concern to the Films, Videos and Publications Classification Act 1993. It must, therefore, be classified unrestricted. This classification is consistent with the right to freedom of expression as affirmed by the New Zealand Bill of Rights Act 1990.
